

EDUCATION NOTES

The International Education Program (IEP)

IEP teachers and students are doing great things on their own. In the spring Chris Bertaut, a Junior World Affairs Council (JWAC) student from Garland High School, was selected to represent Dallas at the Save the Children workshop in D.C. Eric Yang, from The Colony High School, was one of ten students nationally selected by the World Affairs Councils of America to travel to Azerbaijan after winning an essay contest on the region. Also, one JWAC teacher participated in the Foreign Policy Association's Great Decisions workshop at NYU.

British Historian
William Shawcross
with St. Mark's Students

Nobel Laureate Leymah Gbowee
with Garland H.S. Students

2012 International Educator
of the Year Anna Sifford

9/11 Hate Crime Survivor
Rais Bhuiyan at Martin H.S.

"It would be impossible to inspire my students to be global citizens without the knowledge I gain from these workshops."

– Anna Sifford, Garland H.S.